Hughes Suggested To Aid Defense Of Scopes

NEW YORK LIBERAL FACTION FREE WITH ADVICE TO TEACHER

United States Senator Pepper Also Is Put Forth As Counsel

SCOPES DINED BY LIBERTY LEAGUE

Darrow Would Be Club In Bryan's Hands, Members Say

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 9.—John T. Scopes, young Dayton, Tenn., high school teacher has found himself the subject of all sorts of advice from New York liberals, as to the conduct of his trial next month for violating the Tennessee law against the teaching of evolution.

While he favors accepting offers of aid from Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, and Dudley Malone, New York, others urge the selection of Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state. Others suggested United States Senator George W. Pepper of Pennsylvania.

At a luncheon of the Civil Liberties Union, which has guaranteed him financial backing, Scopes was plainly bewildered. He insisted he was to be the final arbiter in the choice of counsel to assist John R. Neal, former dean of the University of Tennessee, his friend and chief counsel.

Speakers at the luncheon opposed Darrow and Malone and argued that outside counsel should be men whose religious views could not be attacked by the fundamentalists. Darrow, speakers said, was reported to be an atheist.

Scopes spoke three times in reply to various suggestions. He said he considered Darrow an agnostic and as such would not prejudice any fair-minded juror. He called himself an agnostic, devoutly religious in his own way.

When no decision had been reached in the matter of counsel late last night, the name of Mr. Hughes was advanced. Supporters of the former secretary of state argued that Darrow's selection would inject the Leopold-Loeb place in the trial and put it in the hands of William Jennings Bryan.

Darrow defended Leopold and Loeb and probably saved them from the death penalty for the murder of Bobbie Franks, of Chicago. Bryan, in his speeches, has held up the youthful slayers as specimens of the evils of over-education.

Advocates of Mr. Hughes' selection believe he would accept.

Scopes indicated his willingness to accept any assistance which meets the approval of the Civil Liberties Union.

SEVEN HUNDRED HEAR H. CALHOUN

Largest Crowd Packs Tent To Hear Noted Evangelist

The Calhoun-Shaffer meeting continues with great interest, both services yesterday were well attended. At the evening service Hall Calhoun spoke to an audience of seven hundred people on the subject of, "True and False Religion."

He first defined the word Religion, as rebinding or binding back again, and then pointed out in a forceful way the two religions that the Bible speaks about, True and False. If any man thinketh himself to be religious while he brideth not his tongue but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain. Pure religion and undefiled before our God and Father is this to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep oneself unstained from the world. Using this as his text he pointed out the ways by which you can tell the kind of religion one has, and the danger of false religion. We defined the word vain in the text as meaning empty, false, just the appearance of being religious. Then turning to the kind of religion we all should have, he gave in a brief way the many things true religion will cause people to do, and that if we all had true religion there would not be so many widows and orphans in need as there are at the present time.

Brother Calhoun especially stressed the word keep oneself unstained from the world, as meaning to keep your words, thoughts, actions, intentions, and body clean and pure, free from the very appearance of evil.

Song service was conducted in a very spiritual way by Brother Shaffer.

American Entrants Are Out Of Race

(Associated Press)

BRUSSELS, June 9.—Both the American entrants are definitely out of the balloon race for the Gordon Bennett cup. The S-14 with Lieutenants Flood and McCormick landed yesterday. The Goodyear Third piloted by Wade T. Van Orman, today was considered disqualified because its pilot accepted aid when it fell at sea.

Four balloons were still unheard from this morning out of the 18 which started Sunday. Rumors were disseminated that Pilot Demuyet had been killed landing in England.

It was believed that Van Orman had travelled a greater distance than any balloon but his rescue at sea constituted a disqualification.

REPLY TO GERMANY TO GO FORWARD

Allies Declared To Be In Perfect Accord On Provisions

PARIS, June 9.—The French reply to Germany's security pact proposal, upon which Great Britain and France announced complete agreement yesterday will be forwarded to Germany within a few days.

It was sent today to Brussels and Rome for approval. Belgium is familiar with the note and officials said approval is certain. Italy's assent is confidently expected.

It was believed here that Europe now is nearer security than at any time since the armistice and that a general settlement may come within a few months.

It was said in French circles, however that everything depends upon whether Germany is sincere in wishing a permanent peace.

MIDDLE AGED MEN, ALL MARRIED, WILL TRY YOUNG SLAYER

Dorothy Perkins Faces Trial For Murder Of Her Suitor

GIRL PREFERRED AN OLDER MAN

Death Ends Efforts Of Father To Encourage Her Romance

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 9.—A jury of middle aged, married business men, some of whom have daughters and granddaughters as old as the defendant, have been selected to try 17-year-old Dorothy Perkins for the murder of her suitor, Thomas Templeton.

Less than five hours were needed yesterday to choose the jury.

Dorothy carried on a whispered conversation with her counsel, indicating her like, or dislike of prospective jurors, especially single men.

The state contends that Dorothy hid in her bedroom the pistol with which Templeton was slain, until she had an opportunity to use it at a convivial party in her home last February, at which he was an unwelcome guest.

Indications are that Dorothy will not take the stand in her own defense, since talesmen were asked if they would be prejudiced by her failure to testify.

The girl preferred the attentions of Michael Connors, 40-year-old married man, who did not meet with the favor of her father. The girl contends Templeton was shot while she and her father were grappling for the revolver, with which her father threatened to shoot Connors if he came to the party.

The penalty for first degree murder in New York state is electrocution.

LADIES SUPPER IS FEATURE THURSDAY

After Automobile Ride Ladies Gather At Valley Club

Visiting ladies coming here Thursday with the Kiwanis units from over North Alabama will be guests at the Valley Country Club at 6:30 o'clock at a picnic supper according to the plans that have already been mapped out for the meeting at which more than 300 Kiwanians and their wives are expected.

Mrs. W. W. Fussell, named as chairman of the ladies entertainment committee, said today that following the registration of visiting ladies at the Lyons Hotel that the ladies of the Morgan Kiwanis club would entertain at the hotel in honor of the visitors. At five o'clock the ladies will join Kiwanians in an automobile trip over the cities.

At 6:30 o'clock a picnic supper the feature of the days programme for the ladies, will be served at the Country club. Mrs. Fussell said today that there had been some confusion caused through the belief that visiting ladies and Kiwanians would be guests at the same affair. She pointed out that the Kiwanians would be at the Albany high school building for a banquet and not at the country club. A musical program will feature the hours from eight until ten in the evening.

Each committee of the local club is functioning properly and Kiwanis heads were of the opinion today that the Thursday meeting would be one of the largest that has been held in the state.

CANTON, June 9.—Fighting between rival Chinese forces battling for possession of Canton continued today with renewed intensity and considerable casualties. River steamers crowded with refugees, were unable to move on account of cross firing over the Chukiang river.

The commander of the largest Chinese gun boat left this ship after receiving a $100,000 from the chief of the Yunnanese forces. The Yunnanese are confident of winning.

A Chinese chamber of commerce, accompanied by delegations of Americans, called on the army chiefs today and requested that the fighting be carried on 10 miles outside the city. The trouble will last some time, according to indications.

The Bund has been deserted. Business inside the city is partially proceeding.

Airplanes from Honan province are circling above the city. Chinese gunboats were active yesterday, damaging buildings along the water front by gunfire.

Additional foreign gunboats are arriving.

CONFEDERATE COINS ARE NOW AT BANKS

Distribution Starts Over The Nation On July 3rd

The first consignment of Confederate Memorial Half Dollars, minted by the United States Government as a tribute to the valor of the "Soldier of the South," which are to be simultaneously released throughout the nation on July 3rd, has been received by the local banks according to an announcement made today by an official of one of our banking institutions.

Citizens of Albany-Decatur now have the opportunity of making sure of obtaining some of these coveted Memorial coins on their national distribution July 3rd," said this banker, "by immediately purchasing coin certificates, redeemable for the actual half dollars on July 3rd."

And less than two million of the Memorial coins are available to the entire South at this time, the Southern Bankers Committee, arranging details of their distribution has allocated only a limited number to each city and county in the various Southern states. Once these quotas are exhausted no further coins are obtainable.

The issuance of these commemorative coins by the National Government is an event of the greatest significance to the South. It is a gesture of friendliness on the part of the nation to which the South will spontaneously respond.

Not only do these coins have an high sentimental value through this national recognition of our Southern heroes, but they also possess an additional worth since the modest premium at which the coins are sold goes to the completion of the great monument to the Confederacy being carved at Stone Mountain, Georgia.

MOST OF MORGAN RECEIVES BENEFIT OF JUNE SHOWERS

Crops In Most Areas Said To Be Best In Many Years

COTTON AND CORN ESPECIALLY GOOD

Farmers Elated Over Prospects Now For Bumper Yields

Rains of the past few days have been worth a great deal of money to farmers of this section, according to observations in close touch with farming conditions today.

A few sections of this and adjoining counties have not yet received the rain which has visited most of this immediate area within the past 48 hours. These sections still complain of needing moisture acutely.

Most of Morgan county, however, received bountiful results from the showers of the past few days and crops in these areas now are declared to be the best known in many years.

Cotton is said to be in splendid condition, with early prospects good for remarkable yields in Morgan county. The corn crop is said to have never been in better condition, on most farms, than it is at present.

Within the past two weeks, farmers have received the benefits of warm sunny periods, followed now by sufficient rains to keep the crops growing at rapid rate. The rain has not been of sufficient duration to cause the fields to become weedy and farmers today were elated over their prospects for bumper yields.

FIVE MEN HELD IN ROADHOUSE DEATH

Beer Runner Shot And Trio Ex-Dry Agents Are In Custody

(Associated Press)
CHICAGO, June 9.—Five men, two of them former prohibition agents, are being held by Sheriff T. M. Hoffman, in connection with the killing of Henry Hassmiller and the probable mortal wounding of Walter O'Donnell, beer runner in a roadhouse on the southside Sunday morning.

Arthur Younggreen and John Peoples are the two former dry agents held. They were taken in custody after the sheriff had been given information that they were in the O'Donnell party, possibly up to the time of the shooting and after Anthony Mallon, also a beer runner, admitted it was he who fired the five bullets which killed Hassmiller.

Mallon denied he shot O'Donnell, who physicians say will die.

The men held told essentially the same story.

They said O'Donnell and Hassmiller had no companions, that Hassmiller suddenly whipped out a revolver, told everybody to "hold 'em up" and asked for the cash box of the resort. Mallon then grappled with Hassmiller and in the end shot and killed him.

SYNOPSIS
CHAPTER I.—Ellen and Joe Tatmer, orphan, without means, make their home with their Aunt Elsie, at Port Washington, small New York town. Ellen is studying art, her expenses being paid by Mrs. Sewall Rose, girlhood friend of her mother. Mrs. Rose invites Ellen to a Thanksgiving house party, and the girl is delighted.
CHAPTER II.—On the way from the station to Mrs. Rose's Ellen rides with a remarkably attractive young woman and a much older man. She takes them for father and daughter, but they are introduced as Mr. and Mrs. Josselyn. Ellen does not "fit in" with the younger members of the party, and is miserable.

Efforts Of The Police
To Solve Mystery
So Far Fail

(Associated Press)
BATON ROUGE, La., June 9.—Efforts by police and detectives have failed, so far, to solve the mysterious axe killing here Sunday of Oscar B. Turner, instructor in agronomy, at the Louisiana state university.
Students of the school of agriculture today began an investigation of the slaying on their own initiative. What methods the students will pursue in their attempts to unravel the puzzling circumstances surrounding the crime were not revealed, but it is understood that among the hundreds of young men and women attending the university, one youth is under close surveillance by both classmates and authorities.
The coroner's jury, which has held two sessions in a prolonged inquest into the killing, and has examined a number of students and other persons connected with the college, without making a recommendation, was adjourned late last night, but will resume inquiry early today.
The slaying, marking the first day of the last week of the present scholastic term, has upset the institution, despite efforts of the faculty to continue classes and examinations.
The historic old campus, dating back to pre-civil war days, has become a ferreting ground, where everyone is watching everyone else.

The subject of the peculiar ways in which girls and women suffer is the one which they prefer not to discuss with others, yet they know that as long as they don't get relief, they are doomed to remain in misery.
Knowing this, and feeling that they will be serving such suffering girls and women in the privacy of their homes, and discoverers of St. Joseph's G. F. P. have scattered the sale of this wonderful medicine as broadcast as possible, so every woman can go or send to her favorite drug store and simply get G. F. P. without asking questions or giving any information about her condition.
It is deemed a sacred duty to let sister, daughter, wife and mother know that in nine cases out of ten the derangement in their organic functioning which causes pains, irregularity, nervousness, irritability, dependency, and swelling of limbs and joints during pregnancy; as well as continued suffering during the change in their lives, is due almost entirely to the hold which the dreaded malady—catarrh, has on their organs.
Many a miserable and suffering woman, influenced by that fear of others knowing, and too modest to find reliable help, has endured such distressing ailments just because she had no way of getting relief such as she can do now by simply getting G. F. P. from the nearest drug store.

and it's your turn. You didn't drop out of the sky, I suppose, just to give me an excuse to blow off steam? You live in—?"
"Port Washington, Long Island. Age, twenty-two," Ellen said demurely. She told him about her grandfather, and Joe, and her work at the Art League. It pleased her to be able to paint Mrs. Rose in the colors of a generous benefactress, to show him what a difference the friendship of the kindly old meddler had made in her life. She said that she lived in an old-fashioned village house, and that Aunt Elsie was considered the best housekeeper in the village, and that her tomatoes and Ellen's dahlias had twice taken prizes at the Mineola fair.
"You sound quaint," said Gibbs, "and as if you might have a melodeon in the parlor."
"We have!" Ellen said, dimpling and widening her eyes as she smiled at him.
After that they ran on for a while in contented silence until he stopped the car at one side of the road, and took off his glasses. Ellen took her own off, too, and looked at him in some surprise, as they blinked at each other in the strong light.
"We are now forty miles from Columbus Circle, and it is one o'clock," said Gibbs. "How do you feel about luncheon? A place called 'Adrian's' is about three miles from here, and I am a frail young thing, and I've not had any breakfast!"
The conventional aspect of the affair struck Ellen for the first time. She looked at him gravely, and her ready countenance crept up. She did not know him, her chaperon was even unaware that she was in his care. Men loved to get foolish girls into strange places, Aunt Elsie said, and a girl never made a mistake in refusing when she was in doubt.
Gibbs was smiling at her obvious hesitation.
"You know you're safe with me, Kiddle, don't you?" he asked. "You know I wouldn't take you anywhere that I wouldn't take my mother?"
That settled it. Ellen had not been born yesterday, after all. She had her own stern girlish standard of judgment, and she knew she was safe. The luncheon was a perfectly natural part of the trip; they were both hungry. And he had not had any breakfast!
She made him an answer that pleased him deeply, although he apparently conceded it nothing but a satisfied nod, and immediately hid his eyes under the glasses again.
"If you say it's all right, I know it must be."
So they went to "Adrian's," a big, shabby hostelry set upon a rise of ground, and provided with wide verandas for the summer crowds; verandas deserted now under their bare awning frames.
The meal came, hot and odorless and appetizing, and they talked while they ate. Gibbs told her of his first acquaintance with Mrs. Rose.
"I was a small kid of ten or twelve, in Rome, do you see? And she was there with her first husband, Torrey. My mother was kind to her, we were at the same hotel, and she was awfully kind to me. She had a brother with her, about my age, and we saw a good deal of each other. Later, when she was a widow, she turned up in Paris with the two children. My mother and father were staying there for a while, before leaving me there to study. And later, she came here, and married Rose, who is a darn nice fellow, and now of course she regards me as a member of her family."
"She went to school in Boston with my mother," Ellen said. "But I never saw her until a few years ago. Now that I've visited her I can see just the careless way she suddenly thought of inviting me to her Thanksgiving house party. I never had such a wretched, uncomfortable time in my life; perhaps it was my own fault!"

"I Never Had Such a Wretched, Uncomfortable Time in My Life; Perhaps It Was My Own Fault!"
She told him all about it, inconsequently, and he listened with genuine interest in his handsome eyes. Perhaps this artless revelation of a girl's heart was novel to a man who found the sex remarkable in all its phases, perhaps with beauty like Ellen's opposite him, and a delicious breakfast under way, he would have found anything she said equally absorbing.
Warned and contented, they went out to the car again, and again Ellen was wrapped in study, and disguised by the big dark glasses.

"Half-past two," said Gibbs, again at the wheel. "That means that we will run into the city just about four o'clock."
The car moved smoothly away over the snow. Ellen was beginning to love the steady, gliding motion. She secretly wished that there was a longer journey ahead.
The snow was surely coming; dark little cottony clouds were gathering ahead, and pressing low over the silent earth. There was no sunshine now, and the air seemed heavier and colder. The roads were almost deserted.
"Never you mind, we'll beat it!" Gibbs said with great enjoyment. "Look out for a signpost, and tell me where we are."
"Columbus Circle twelve miles," Ellen announced, after a few minutes. "Twelve miles—well, we must look out for the Sunday speed cops now!" He slackened his pace. They were running through a well-settled region. Ellen began to realize that the trip was almost over. The day had run away; a day always to be a wonderful and treasured memory.
Afterward, she tried to remember just how she was shaken from her musings. Like all accidents, the thing was simplicity itself. They were running parallel to a trolley track, on the wide street under the beginning of the elevated trains. There was a car on the track a few hundred feet ahead, and next to the car a man driving an enormous team of horses and an empty truck. Both truck and trolley were traveling in the same direction as the automobile.
The street was so wide that there was no question, even in Ellen's mind, of the propriety of passing the car and truck, especially as the stretch of street beyond was absolutely empty. Gibbs turned his wheel toward the left, and was running unconcernedly by, when the motorman suddenly sounded an ear-piercing whistle—a terrific, prolonged blast of the siren with which trolley cars are sometimes equipped in the country. The horses, with a wild plunge of terror, flung themselves straight across the path of the motorcar coming up behind them, almost unseating their driver, and tangling themselves in reins and harness.
Gibbs jerked his car violently to the left, instinctively avoiding the plunging hoofs; there was a moment of horrible skidding and grinding in the snow that edged the ditch, then the roadster turned abruptly on its side, and Ellen was spilled out, with Gibbs on top of her.
The girl had hardly time for a moment of hideous apprehension and panic before she was on her feet again, with her arm about her, laughing with the revulsion and the shock. The skid had saved them, for the car was turned at an exact angle, and so had slipped with her lights firmly wedged against the further side of the ditch, and had no opportunity to turn turtle, as she must otherwise have done.
For a few confused moments Ellen hid her dazed face in the fur of the man's shoulder; no, she really wasn't hurt, she had landed on her shoulder, honestly she was not hurt, it just hurt her for a moment, that was all! And it had scared her—Gibbs, reassured, began to nurse a wrenched wrist of his own, and to discuss the accident with the two carmen and the truck driver with the usual anger and threats. What was the sense of blowing a whistle right into the horses' ears—
"You was passing too close to the edge of the road anyway!" shouted the motorman furiously. Upon Gibbs taking his number, he blew his whistle again, and banged triumphantly down the line. The truck driver, a little frightened, standing at the horses' heads, expressed his satisfaction that the lady wasn't hurt, and drove away.
"You've bust your front spring, mister," volunteered a youth gayly.
"I know I have," Gibbs said savagely. "You poor little thing," he added tenderly to Ellen. "I've scared you to death!"
"Oh, it feels all right, now," she said quickly, but she was white, and still shaken from the narrow escape. He read her expression truly.
With only one worried glance at her, he set about extricating them from the difficult position as rapidly as possible. The gay boy was left in charge of the car, and Gibbs caught up Ellen's suitcase, as, still in their heavy coats, they started on foot to the nearest garage.
Fortunately this was not far away, and from here Gibbs sent mechanics back to the roadster, and engaged a taxicab to take Ellen and himself as far as the subway at Van Cortlandt Park.
All the while he was praising her, not only in words, but with his appreciative eyes, and in the sudden, heartfulness that the averted tragedy inspired in him. He talked to her frankly and gayly; she was a good sport, she had really shown incredible nerve. And they had had a great day, hadn't they?—since they missed the train from Hastings.
"It's been a wonderful day!" she said, hardly above a whisper.
Perhaps the man's first impulse was to lay his hand over the small hand not far from his own, to say something that should meet her mood. It was not the only time that Gibbs Josselyn had had such an opportunity, it was the first move in a game that he had played with supreme success for many years.
But he did not want to play that game with Ellen. There was no conscious, idle flirtatiousness in those lowered blue eyes, no coquetry in that honest little Irish mouth. It could bring her no joy, it might—it must

MODERN METHODS PROMOTE SCRUBBERS TO EASIER WORK
NEW YORK—Office skyscrapers of the $10,000,000 type now entering Fifth Avenue mark the end of sites like the W. K. Vanderbilt mansion and the Church of the Heavenly Rest and also spell the passing of another familiar and sympathetic figure of old New York, the scrub woman.
The scrubwoman as such no longer exists in the latest office buildings in the Wall street district downtown which Fifth Avenue promises to follow. Her disappearance in the older buildings will be only a matter of time.
The Equitable Building, the largest office building in the world, does not know what a scrubwoman looks like, according to the management. She has been supplanted by men, for the heavier work by which she is best remembered and her vigorous brush and waterpail by an electrical scrubbing machine.
The scrubwoman herself, however, does not exactly suffer by the change. She has been lifted from her knees and her backbreaking toil, it was said and metamorphosed into a cleaning woman. A dustcloth and light mop are the weight of her present burden. She is even termed a "maid," because dusting of offices and freshening up

12 Years Ago From The Daily of TODAY

June 9, 1913
Dr. Frank P. Petty, who was operated on last night for appendicitis, is resting well today at a Nashville hospital, according to word received here.

Howard Clark, of Huntsville, visited his parents and other relatives here over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Adams, formerly of this city, but now of Montgomery, are the guests of friends here.

Rev. Clay I. Hudson, pastor of the First Baptist church, has resigned his pastorate here.

CHINESE NOT ALL BAD

When the Chinese war among themselves and go out of their way to make things uncomfortable for foreign residents in Shanghai and other cities, they give the world an impression of a belligerent race, soured on the rest of the races.

The Chinese, however, are not all bad. A dispatch from New York finds its way into the newspaper offices, telling of the habits of the Chinese residents of that city.
The investigation of the work of the public libraries
there, together with statistics regarding the results they are accomplishing, reveals that the best behaved group of children in the entire city of New York are Chinese boys and girls.

When the story hour arrives, the dispatch adds, "they listen to the story teller with admiring and attentive respect and when they ask for some particular kind of story, it is not a clamorous demand as in the instance of many American youngsters."

"They never make a bit of trouble and never, never quarrel," the librarians add.

COAST GUARD SEEMS TO HAVE WON SWEEPING VICTORY OVER RUM FLEET

A contributor, writing under the title "An ex-Boot-legger," says in the Sunday issue of The New York News that the rum fleet is losing hope that the American government is not in earnest about the efforts to stop the influx of prohibited liquors.

A few ships still are outside the limit, waiting for some break in the line of speed boats and destroyers guarding the coast. These are only a few, however. Most of the ships which, a few months ago, made up the large fleet of rum runners have departed for more fertile fields.

The blockade is effective and has been since the government finally decided to quit "fooling" about stopping the rum runners and really made a serious effort to bring an end to this particular type of prohibition violation.

People who really want the supply of imported rum to cease find only one thing in the situation to give them fear—will the government continue its drastic treatment of smugglers?

The answer was by Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of the dry campaign,
says:

"More has been accomplished than could have been anticipated in what was in reality a preliminary skirmish designed to uncover the strength and resources of the enemy," said Mr. Andrews. "The results not only give us the data on which to plan the real attack, but justify us in continuing our activities in the meantime. We are now in a position to plan for the real battle."

THOMAS E. KILBY ADVISES VOTERS HE WILL MAKE RACE FOR SENATE

While Senator Oscar W. Underwood still weighs the matter of making another campaign for the senate, Thomas E. Kilby, of Anniston, former governor of Alabama, advises the voters definitely that he will make the race.

"There has been so much written recently about my proposed candidacy for the United States Senate," the ex-governor says, "and I have received so many inquiries from friends over the state in reference to my plans, that I consider it only fair to these friends and supporters to state unequivocally that I shall be in the race. I shall file my announcement with the secretary of state,
as required by law, at the proper time."

Mr. Kilby leaves the next move up to Senator Underwood. The latter has not yet given any indication what his ultimate decision toward another campaign will be.
If he decides to run, however, the fight staged in Alabama this summer and fall will be a lively one. Neither of the candidates would be hampered for lack of funds.
Messrs. Underwood and Kilby financially are able to conduct a comprehensive campaign. Both are sufficiently well known to the voters of the state to make the campaign interesting.

Mr. Kilby, however, expresses the hope that the campaign will be a short one. May The Daily not add the hope that it will be a clean one. Senatorial campaigns of the past few years have been anything but calm and dispassionate debate of political issues in Alabama. Enemies of Senator Underwood usually make him the target for much abuse. His friends display no timidity in replying. Charges and counter-charges usually grow more extravagant as the campaigns progress. Before the end, people are wrought up to such an extent, many say things they do not mean, things which, in calmer moments, they would be ashamed to repeat.

Senator Underwood has represented Alabama first in congress, and then in the senate, for many years. He has been honored by the people of this state, by the Democratic party and by his political adversaries who recognized in him a statesman of great talent.

Governor Thomas E. Kilby has been a business success in this state. As chief executive of Alabama, he served honorably, meeting the problems of his office in a manner which showed him to be a director of unusual ability.

Perhaps there may be one or more other candidates.
If there are other seekers after the office, no doubt, they too will be men of high mental attainment. Certainly Senator Underwood and Mr. Kilby are.

Why not make the approaching senatorial fight unusual for its cleanliness. Give the voters the issues, let them weigh these issues carefully and without prejudice, and return the verdict they deem proper. Leave off the mud-slinging, and that goes for both sides.

BUILDING OWNERS AND MANAGERS DISCUSS POSSIBILITY OF 60 STORIES

"The sky is the limit," one would judge in the building trades. The builders and owners association is meeting in Cleveland this week. One of the projects for discussion is the possibility of rearing building roofs 60 stories into the air.

Some 700 members of the organization are attending the meeting, including some of the managers and owners of the world's greatest office structures, which gives the discussions in Cleveland something of an official tint.

The possibility of 60-story buildings is no idle dream,
we are advised, in press dispatches. The soaring land values has made it necessary for owners to obtain more and more revenue from their buildings to obtain a profitable return on their investments, and so far no one has appeared with profiteer charges on the sky. The price of a front foot of earth may reach staggering totals, but the air still is free, so building owners are preparing to take advantage of their opportunity before the cost of it too mounts.

Another interesting angle of the Cleveland discussions will be the matter of skyscraper garages. Leo Thompson Smith, president of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers says the availability of parking facilities may soon become a determining factor in the selection of offices, in view of the growing popularity of automobiles as a means of transportation.

"With downtown land values at high rates it is obviously impossible to provide free parking space," he declared. "The provision of parking space is a definite service that is worth a charge. This brings us squarely face-to-face with the question of garages, upon which their tenants have first call. These garages, without the use of elevators, run up to eight stories.

"We have recently formed a committee which is devoting much time to the study of this important problem, and it is hoped that this committee, at the convention will be able to give the membership of the association a definite recommendation for meeting this problem since rental values are being affected in many cities by the availability of parking facilities."

CHICAGO TRIBUNE BUSY AS EVER TAKING SLAP AT THE SOUTH

The Chicago Tribune, busy as it always has been, in taking occasional slaps at the South, has some unkind things to say of the recent oratorical contest, which was won by Robert Sessions, of Birmingham, and many papers seem to wonder if Sessions' victory did not have something to do with the Tribune's criticism.

The Tribune, after the contest, gave expression to the following opinion:

"Presumably the adults responsible for the contest were impressed with its value, both to the contestants, and to the youth of the land, but doubt assails us. We doubt it is good for him (Sessions) or for the youth of the land or for their elders to have so much honor paid to the pleasant vocalizing of borrowed truisms. It is to put a premium on mere talk, of which, may we be permitted to remark, this republic has an overproduction."

The Age-Herald, which sponsored the contest in Alabama, has collected a consensus of opinion by many prominent Alabama people. These citizens accord the Tribune's slur the lowly position to which it is justly entitled.

Some of the opinions, as published by the Age-Herald,
follow:

"Dr. George H. Denny, the distinguished president of the University of Alabama, describes the view expressed by The Tribune as 'absurd, unfair, illogical and destructive,' and challenges the worthiness of the motive underlying the criticism. If The Tribune's philosophy prevailed, he points out, a quietus would be put on all serious effort to train the nation's youth in public speaking.
"One cannot resist the feeling," Dr. Denny adds, "that the writer of the editorial in The Tribune was either dreaming or else smarting under a feeling of resentment or else challenging the motive of those who would magnify the importance of training the youth of the country in the foundation principles on which this republic rests."

Judge Anderson Lauds Effort

"Chief Justice John C. Anderson of the Alabama supreme court, disagrees with The Tribune's view and lauds the annual competition for its great aid in enlisting interest in the 'importance of sanctity of the constitution.'"
"Judge William H. Thomas, associate-supreme court justice, refutes the 'mere talk' argument of the Chicago newspaper in a powerful statement.

"D. E. McLendon, president of the Birmingham city commission, bluntly charges that The Tribune is back at its old game of 'south hating.'"

"Dr. C. B. Glenn, superintendent of the Birmingham public schools, and Erskine Ramsey, president of the board of education, laud the annual contest and urge its continuance as a most excellent way of focusing youthful and adult attention on the fundamentals underlying our government. Dr. C. A. Brown, associate school superintendent, says the contest is proving of 'untold benefit' to the high school students of the country and the public at large.

Dickson Wants 'More Of It'

"City Commissioner W. E. Dickson, himself a former educator, urges 'still more of this mere talk if it is to be about the constitution.'"

"Maj. Matt H. Murphy, twice state commander of the American Legion, asserts that the whole country is 'better off' by reason of the contest.

"City Attorney W. J. Wynn deals The Tribune a heavy blow when he declares its argument is too ridiculous to deserve an answer.

"Throughout the numerous other replies received, Robert Sessions, the 15-year-old national champion, is praised for his feat in bringing such high honors to Alabama and the south."

BAPTISTS DENOUNCE EVOLUTION; REPORT PROGRESS IN THEIR WORK

Southern Convention at Memphis Adopts Statement of Baptist Faith and Message for Information of World—Co-operative Program for Support of Enterprises Endorsed.

Many large achievements were reported to the Southern Baptist Convention at its recent session at Memphis by its various missionary, educational and benevolent enterprises, although none of them had at its commend during the past year as large totals as were needed.

The Hospital Commission reported 24 Baptist hospitals in operation in the South, with three others under construction. These institutions treated over 100,000 patients during the year and did over $1,000,000 in charity work for deserving poor.

More than 1,000 aged preachers and their dependent ones were aided by the Relief and Annuity Board.

MANY BAPTISMS REPORTED

The Sunday School Board reported a gain of 940 Sunday Schools for the year, with 155,236 new pupils, bringing the present number of Southern Baptist Sunday schools to 21,570, with an enrollment of 2,550,953. Other items in the board's statistical report show that there are now 27,517 Baptist churches affiliated with the Convention which last year reported 209, 674 baptisms and which now have 3,750,322 members.

During the past 25 years Southern Baptists have incorporated the number of their schools, colleges and theological seminaries from 65 to 117 and the total assets of these schools from $7,500,000 to $43,000,000. It was reported by the Education Board. In these institutions there are $3,000

Baptist students.

The Home Mission Board employed 1,077 workers during the year who reported 30,027 baptisms and 50,354
additions to the churches, the erection or repair of 255 church houses and the organization of 608 Sunday schools.

On 17 foreign fields the Foreign Mission Board has employed 618
American missionaries and 2,443 native workers. A total of 12,134 baptisms were reported by these workers for the year, bringing the present membership of the foreign churches to 117,961.

ENDORSES CO-OPERATIVE PROGRAM

The Convention heartily endorsed the co-operative plan for the support of all its missionary, educational and benevolent work and named a Commission on the Co-operative Program which will seek to enlist all the Baptist churches of the South in the regular, systematic support of home,
state and foreign missions, ministrial relief and Baptist schools, hospitals and orphanages. Churches not already supporting all these enterprises through weekly contributions are invited to assume such support at once. The Convention endorsed the plan of the Commission discussing independent appeals to churches and individuals on the part of special denominational interests, urging all of them to look to the Co-operative Program for their support and asking all the churches to support the Program.

STAND BY THE OLD BIBLE

That the world may know where Southern Baptists stand upon the great fundamental Christian doctrines, many of which are being assailed today, the convention adopted a statement of the Baptist faith and message, in which attacks upon the inspiration and authority of the Bible and the divinity of Christ were vigorously refuted.

Here are some of the leading declarations in the statement as it was adopted:

THE SCRIPTURES

"We believe that the Holy Bible was written by men divinely inspired and is a perfect treasure of heavenly instruction; that it has God
for its author, salvation for its end, and truth, without any mixture of error, for its matter; that it reveals the principles by which God will judge us, and therefore is, and will remain to the end of the world, the true center of Christian union, and our Baptist schools."

pressiveness to the funeral recently

Castle. The casket was covered with

PATIENT SCIENTIST SOON MAY REVEAL WISDOM OF MAYAS

NEW ORLEANS—The Maya Indian civilization is classified by Dr.
William E. Gates, who is directing Maya research work for Tulane University, of New Orleans, as equal at its apex to that of any people recorded in ancient history and comparable between 200 and 600 A. D. to the older civilization of the ancient Greeks, Romans and Egyptians.

Dr. Gates, who is head of the Middle American research department of Tulane, said one of the university's expeditions last March reported the discovery of many hitherto unrecorded monuments. These dot the entire Maya territory, which embraces the Isthmus of Tehuantepec and the Yucatan Peninsula in Mexico and extends into Guatemala and Honduras.

The monuments appear to have been built at five-year intervals for recording the history and science of the race, and bear a date at the top. Dr.
Gates said they indicate an intense interest in astronomy. The deductions of the Maya Indians regarding the movements of the sun and moon have been declared by scientists to have been remarkable, although their numerals and calendars are as yet little understood.

Dr. Gates, who is a graduate of the University of Virginia, has been studying the Maya pictographs for more than 20 years and his fellow scientists say he is near a solution of them.
He declined to discuss his progress
or to predict the outcome of his task which, is successful, would open up a field comparable to that revealed to the scientific world by the finding of the Rosetta Stone in Egypt.

Tulane will send a larger expedition into the Maya field next year for excavations and careful study of the palaces, temples and dwelling places which, despite their abandonment for approximately 1,500 years are rich in drawings, paintings, mouldings and carvings on wood and stone. Practically all the work done there so far has been on the surface, and Dr.
Gates hopes to be able to revitalize
the customs and manners of the people.

Although the expedition will go for research into relics of the past, it will also make surveys of present conditions with a view toward practical development of the resources of the countries. Hence experts on plant and animal life, chemists and physicians as well as archaeologists will be in the expedition.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN EMERGES FROM THE DARK

Charlie Chaplin! Charlie Chaplin! Who are you in the dark?

One of the most widely known persons in America beside President Coolidge, is Charlie Chaplin, comedian of the cinema world, who inspired the above quotation from Sandburg in his latest picture "The Gold Rush." Charlie of the baggy trousers is now bound and deserted by the girl he loves. The humorous pathos to such a situation aroused the poet, Charlie has put a bomb under the musical profession by assuming the role of conductor, composer and violinist. It is a bit difficult to imagine Charlie of the large pants imitating gait, derby hat and tiny mustache, a musician. He has been hiding behind a smock of fun all these years. While filming the picture "The Gold Rush" he took time off to arrange the accompanying score to his picture. He is of course the principal actor in the story. Chaplin's most intimate friend is Charles Wakefield Cadman. He is also very fond of a number of song writers. Chaplin has written a number of compositions that are very popular records sold by the talking machine people.

Chaplin believes that music and motion pictures are a composite art. The movies have learned a great deal from music and now, music must learn from the pictures.

In this latest film he has tried to make his music express the symbolism of the story. Man's eternal hunt for happiness, gladness and sorrow alternating. There is one more thing, Mr. Chaplin promised himself in the near future and that is the role of Ko Ko in his favorite light opera, "Kikado," the public will enjoy seeing Chaplin flounder in the town of Lili-pu.

He is a left hand violinist, is sure he would have astonished the world as a violinist if his teacher had had a sense of humor.

This clipping that follows is a just compliment to Mrs. Hitzing, a woman who is thoroughly alive to every thing, a club woman who combines all the domestic accomplishments necessary to make a complete home. She is a past mistress of needle art, also millinery, her chicken farm is the show place of Memphis. Mrs. Hitzing is the daughter of Mrs. Amanda McCarthy and is a frequent visitor in the home of Dr. W. A. Rickles.

"Whitehaven, which annually puts on one of the best community fairs in the county, made a departure Tuesday night, when Mrs. Willis Hitzing was elected president of the fair association at the annual meeting of the association.

"Mrs. Hitzing is one of that splendid band of women in Shelby county devoted to the progress and development of things cultural in rural life. We do not know that another woman has been elected president of a fair association, but there is nothing strange about it or unusual. The women do most of the work, prepare most of the exhibits and carry-off nearly all the prizes. Why shouldn't they have something to say in the organization? It was a pretty compliment and a deserving tribute to Mrs. Hitzing's interest in the community life of Whitehaven."—Commercial Appeal.

SCIENTISTS TRACE RAINS TO CHANGING CURRENTS IN OCEAN

WASHINGTON.—Reports of changes in two important ocean currents are before the navy hydrographic office, where a close watch is being kept in anticipation of other similar changes.

Word that the Humboldt current, which swings up from the Antarctic off the west coast of South America, had changed its course somewhat, bringing rains to arid regions for the first time in the memory of men now living, have been supplemented by a report from the steamer India Arrow, indicating changes in the Japan current about 500 miles east of Japan.

While no definite explanation can be given of the phenomena because of insufficient data, officers incline to the view that it is a direct result of the decrease in solar radiation reaching the earth in the past three years. The drop in this radiation was first announced by the Smithsonian Institution, but it is pointed out that although the radiation recently returned to nearly normal again, it could logically be expected that surface ocean waters would not reflect the change for some time, due to the slowness with which the ocean reacts to any such change.

The change noted in the Japan current was attributed to the Oyashio, ordinarily a weak current comparable to the Labrador current in the Atlantic, which runs down the coast of Asia from the north. The Oyashio, it was said, had developed increased force this year, probably due to a stronger movement of the waters through Bering Strait, and apparently had cut athwart the Japan current.

A similar situation is believed to have caused the change in the Humboldt current off South America. El Nino, ordinarily a weak, warm current which flows south periodically from Panama, gathered increased force this year and overrode the Humboldt current. This quite logically could set up different air movements and bring warm, moist winds to the land and so cause an exceptional instance of precipitation.

Evidently there has been for some time a fairly wide-spread abnormal condition in ocean surface waters, particularly off Australia, the east coast of South Africa, and in the North Atlantic. There has been unusual strength to the movement of waters from the North Atlantic around Spitzbergen, and possibly as a reaction to that, an increased movement of the waters swinging south through Bering Strait. Officers are watching closely for reports on the Georgia current, which swings up from the Antarctic about midway in the South Atlantic ocean, in the expectation that an interesting situation may be noted.

But with the return of solar conditions to normal, it is expected in one or two years that all ocean currents will resume their accustomed paths.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait until today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., R. A. 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

ETERNAL CITY BECOMES EXPENSIVE LIVING PLACE

ROME—Rome has climbed to a place beside Moscow and New York among the most expensive cities in the world, according to official statistics. These show that since the beginning of the Holy Year the monthly index figure of living costs has steadily mounted. During March the index figure jumped almost three per cent, but tourists and residents agree that their personal statistics showed a greater increase.

Travelers lament the palmy days of a few years ago when Italy was famous for its cheap living costs, and assert that the sky-rocketing prices force them to revise their estimates of expected expenses and to alter their plans for further traveling.

But the brunt of the increase is borne by the Romans, who have to pay twice as much, and sometimes three times as much as last year to maintain their homes. And when explanations are asked, the shopkeepers invariably answer smilingly: "It is the Holy Year."

HALLBROOK RETURNS

W. E. Hallbrook of the Turner Coal and Grain Co., has just returned from Atlanta where he attended the Purinn Mills Sales school held last week at the Hotel Cecil. TOKYO PLANS TO SELL GOOD MEALS AT COST

TOKIO.—The social affairs bureau of the Tokyo municipality is planning the construction of 16 public eating houses in different parts of the city. Each building will cost about 50,000 yen. These dining halls when completed, will be under the direct control of the bureau.

The meals served will be extremely simple, but well cooked and will be offered at cost price. The bureau has been operating a number of these dining rooms successfully, the patrons being mostly office clerks and workmen.

JAPAN TO BUILD SHRINES THAT FIRE CAN'T DESTROY

TOKYO.—The cult of Shinto is no exception to the modernization wave which has been sweeping over Japan since the great earthquake of 1923. At a recent meeting of the Shinto Shrine Reconstruction Committee, held at the Home Office, it was decided that those shrines destroyed by the earthquake fire should be re-built of fire-proof materials. In Tokyo and vicinity 193 Shinto shrines were destroyed. The estimated cost of reconstructing these has been placed at 4,562,168 yen.

ECZEMA

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

MANY people imagine that eczema or better needs only some external application on the skin in order to get relief. This is because the attention of the sufferer is so violently directed to the intense burning and itching which accompanies this disease. Try as they may—permanent relief will never be theirs until the disease laden blood is thoroughly cleansed.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood-cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema, with all its fiery, skin digging torture, and its soul-tearing, unrelenting itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of Nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826.

S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body strengtheners known to us mortals! When you put these facts together, then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it cures eczema, clears the skin, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, and gives you that more up and going appearance.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

SPORTS

Pirate Spurt Powerful, But Giants And Dodgers Remain Well In Front In Nat.

Struggling for the league leadership is the choice morsel of all league clubs no matter if in the big tops or in some bush league for in the sticks. It is an exceedingly difficult matter to overthrow the powers that be after a particularly hard start. That is the handicap that the Pittsburgh Pirates are facing today as they amble along winning the majority of their games and fighting the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants for a place of renown and fame in the National loop. Pittsburgh first contended with one of the longest losing streaks that any club in the circuit had ever established. Their fight started from the ground floor for they were nearly named cellar champs less than three weeks ago. Today they have climbed into third place with Brooklyn a single game in the lead for second place. New York is apparently not worried. The Giants continue to win a majority of their games despite the fact that several stars remain out of the lineup. They maintain a full four game lead that places them nearly 100 points ahead of the nearest contender.

Kicked and cuffed about the National loop for the first month the Pirates have now risen to a commanding position and even the Giant managerial talent is fearing that Pittsburgh is the club that must be defeated before the pennant can be hung from a New York tenement this year.

Dreyfus, owner of the Pirates, predicted at the beginning that his team would be strong. That it should be a contender for the 1925 title. Despite the slow start he never gave up hope, he refused to make changes when other managers were laughing up their sleeves at his club roster. Today the Pirates are coming into the mid-summer season with fight spirit galore and it is our prediction that the Giants will be forced to a finish fight.

New York Letter

NEW YORK, June 9.—The colors of nature may have lost their popularity in those days of nouveau art and the cult of the artificial. But they've still got to be used in our children's textbooks. At least in the books of our suburban children. Here in New York, there may be no one in the schools to check the color of an apple or a blue bird, but in the open spaces of our commuters' homes, they can't be fooled. The Board of Education of one such suburb has just risen in protest over pumpkin colored apples, where red ones are described in the text, and over a blue bird pictured in seven colors.

The attorney for a certain chemical firm here in town would never agree on the advantage of nature over art, in any capacity. The firm has been sued by one Grace Scelig, who claims it was responsible for her falling down a flight of stairs with the resultant necessity of having her leg amputated and wearing an artificial one. The attorney's defense is a naive contention for the preferability of modern carpentry over nature. "The lady is better off than before the accident," he held, "because she had a stiff knee for many years before that and her artificial leg is supple and bends perfectly at the knee."

One hundred dollars tax on every pistol and one dollar on every cartridge has been suggested by a New York Judge as the best protection against crime. New York hold-up men are the only citizens of the community, though, who could afford the tax and large numbers of them have been sufficiently prosperous so that they wouldn't miss a $100 or so, even if it were payable every month.

Another negro revue is coming to Broadway. "Lucky Sambo" will open shortly after a run in Baltimore and Washington. Revues of this sort have proved exceedingly popular in New York during the past few seasons and "Lucky Sambo" will probably have the same success.

It was with tears in his eyes that "Peddler Sam" twenty-one times convicted of picking pockets, pleaded his innocence when charged with swindling two men out of $6,100 by selling them houses he did not own. "Say,

Makes Hot Weather Easier On Baby

Baby suffers often during hot, sultry spells. Food is upsetting. Colic is frequent and mothers must watch out for Diarrhoea, Acidity, Cholera Morbus, and such troubles. The one safe preventive is to build up baby's strength and vitality to go through these hot weather ailments. "When my baby began teething he was cross and did not sleep good," writes Mrs. Sam Millsapp, of Dalton, Ga. "Baby's cry was pitiful and he was restless. When Dr. Moffett's Teething was recommended I am happy to say it did loads of good. Now Baby is well and happy as you please. I certainly recommend Teething to all mothers as I don't see how they could bring a baby up without it."

Teething is a baby doctor's prescription. It costs only 30c at all leading druggists, yet millions of mothers know its priceless value in keeping babies well.

Judge," he said to District Attorney Banton, "you ought to know I wouldn't go outside my own line. I'm a pick-pocket, I am, and I don't know anything else. Why, it's out of my class anyway. I ain't smart enough for these flim-flam games. I'm just a steady pick-pocket." Mr. Banton decided to let the jury decide.

On the theory that nations can be more easily united by sentiments and ideals than by material interests, Mrs. E. H. Harriman of New York organized the art exhibition of unusual character which opened in Paris this week. "The First Trinational" it is called, and it includes a selection of paintings and sculptures by living French and American painters, without regard to tendencies or schools. From Paris the collection will be taken to London and then brought to New York. It is hoped to hold an exhibition along the same lines each year.

There is one burglar in town who will pick out something other than a grocery store the next time he plans to make a haul. Or if he should continue his experiment, he will choose a store run by a proprietor or another name than O'Brien. "Hands up!" he exclaimed boldly as he entered Dennis O'Brien's grocery last night. Before he realized what was happening a shower of heavy cans of peas and beans and beautifully pictured apricots and everything else that comes in tin cans was raining upon his head, thrown by the trusty two arms of Mr. O'Brien, who had put up his hands only far enough to gather his stores from his shelves and start firing them. The burglar retreated faster than he ever had at the sight of even a policeman's club.
